OTS Director Ellen Seidman issued the following statement concerning the death of William B. Fitzgerald, Sr.

William B. Fitzgerald, Sr., was a stalwart leader in the Washington, D.C., community and an outstanding thrift institution executive. As a co-founder and the chief executive of Independence Federal Savings Bank, the only thrift remaining in Washington, Mr. Fitzgerald achieved an exemplary record for sound financial operations. Under his leadership, minority-owned Independence in its 30 years of operations has made many student loans and mortgage loans to residents of the community when few, if any other lenders, would. His accomplishments will long be remembered. We extend our deepest sympathy to his family.
